Bio

I am a divergent technology enthusiast with 16+ years' experience in the ICT industry, more than half of it I spent roaming the web, freelance writing, virtual assistant, until WordPress saved me 6+ years ago by giving me a voice of my own which I use freely on my personal blog.

I currently work as a Support Engineer at Paid Memberships Pro, a plugin that allows you get paid by selling Membership on your WordPress Website. I founded HowDoYou.Tech, a membership site selling search as a service for tech questions & WordPress Support to Africans. I use WordPress daily and see it as a tool for Personal and Professional Empowerment, I teach digital skills for free to women and girls at Uwani Hub and run my personal blog, I believes everyone should own a personal blog where they share their stories and experiences. I love Cats, Photography, Rabbits & Backpacking!

Interests

WordPress. Open Source Softwares. Open Research. Tacit Knowledge Management. Information Society Technologies.

WordPress Origin Story

I was in Ghana 2015 volunteering for my internship with the Salesians of Don

Bio

I founded LightSpeed in 2003 as an IT Support company, then converted to a WordPress Development & Design agency in 2007. We have been a fully remote team since 2014. Ash is based Cape Town, a beautiful location with mountains and sea within 10 minutes cycle.

Interests

Avid cyclist who loves mountain biking, road riding, gravel biking, commuting and touring. When I am not working with WordPress, then I am on a bicycle or doing some kind of exercise.

WordPress Origin Story

I was introduced to WordPress in 2006 at Cape Town BarCamp in 2006, which started an incredible journey of learning and growth.
